HOW NATURE LEADS US ON

After the Courtship Dreams With Their Bright Hues Come the Babies' Future Dreams.

Love is an illusion. Some seem to take it as a bitter thing that after the honeymoon the married pair settle down to the humdrum of everydayness. But, in the first place, they never quite become entirely disillusioned. The stain of the rainbow lingers in the average marriage, and in the second place, even if this illusion passes, another comes, for there are the children, and lover and lass who once dreamed of each other must dream of the babies.

Illusions are Nature's device for getting things done. That is why she fills young men so full of illusions as to their own power. Heaven help us if young people knew precisely what they could do! They would do nothing at all.

And if girls knew just what marriage was going to be, and all their future down to the grave, they would never marry. Illusions are Nature's bait.

Life itself is progressive illusion: "Maia" the Hindus call it.

And we are not poor dupes. Nature is not cheating us, and sneering at us the while. She is leading us on in love, as we lead our little children.—Dr. Frank Crane in Woman's World.

One of the most common ailments that hard working people are afflicted with is lame back. Apply Chamberlain's Liniment twice a day and massage the parts thoroughly at each application, and you will get quick relief. For sale by Longwell Bros.

Migh. Have Known It.

A New Yorker suffering from stomach trouble was put under an X-ray and learned that he had swallowed his false teeth. The chump might have known it from the gnawing pain in his stomach.

A Peachy Machine.

A California high school student has patented a machine to cut and stone peaches and place the pieces right side up on drying trays at the rate of 1,500 boxes a day.

Which?

Every day that is born into the world comes like a burst of music, and rings itself all the day through; and thou shalt make it a dance, a dirge, or a life-march, as thou wilt.—Carlyle.

Love That Lasts.

Mrs. Flipp—"I wonder if my husband will love me when my hair is gray?" Her Friend—"Of course he will. He's loved you through three shades of hair already."

Younger Than Her Daughter.

An Atchison woman registered the other day and gave her age as thirty-eight. A short time afterward her daughter registered and gave her age as forty-two.—Kansas City Journal.

His Philosophy.

"Do you always keep a smiling about your daily duties?" "Now; I look grouchy all the time. Then I ain't asked to do no extra work."

Shock Absorber.

To absorb shocks that might destroy tungsten electric lamps suspended by cords there has been invented a wire spring with hooks at each end to engage the cord.

Futility of Wealth.

"A man who can draw his check for $10,000 ought to be happy," said the contemplative man. "Yes," replied the philosophic friend. "But think how annoyed you'd be if you had to do it."

REMINISCENCES.

While we hope that in many ways we do not resemble that noble (?) water bird, the pelican,—still, during Chautauqua week we are gathering food for thought and storing it away in our knowledge pouch, knowing full well that we cannot digest the rich viands that are offered us before another feast is ours; we store them as in courses one upon another and while we devour them rapidly, assimilation takes place later—Fletcher.

It is impossible to remember all of the great lessons, but we are sure to absorb some of them. We have derived great benefit from them.

Boys and girls who are brought up in the Chautauqua way, are bound to be thinking men and women—and thinking men and women are what two-thirds of our platform speakers during the Chautauqua were pleading for. We cannot comprehend it all, but we get the greater part of it and let us put it to good account.

We have something in mind that we would like to say at this time about Chautauqua that concerns our local manager, but do not know exactly how to start in. Anyhow it is like this: This man Shaefer knows how to conduct a thing of this kind to perfection. But if we tell it just as it is he will believe it and possibly he will have one next year better than any of them have been and not let any of us go. Nevertheless, we're going in "Where angels fear to tread" and say it.

Henry Shaefer is the right man; and his many courtesies and thoughtful acts for the comfort and pleasure of his guests certainly were appreciated by every patron of the grand entertainment of the past week. He has thanked us for our appreciation—now we wish to take our hats off to him—he deserves all the verbal bouquets that we can hand him.

Shakespeare expressed a most beautiful thought about "patience sitting on a monument smiling at grief" etc. We understand the pathos of it: What about the erstwhile monuments of forbearance that sat at the gate—looking like the "Two Johns"—mosquito bitten and forgotten?

Alas! A pair of spectacles.

We have never had a better platform manager during the four years of our Chautauqua life, than this year, and we may add that better order was maintained than ever before.

They say that Nero played the violin while Rome was burning—slucks! Henry Shaefer smiled and ate peanuts while the wind was blowing the tent down.

When anything was lacking, And not ready to commence And the program needed packing, They simply called on Stentz. He can sing a song that suits us He can help fix up the tents, Or, in fact what'er is wanted Don't be bashful—call on Stentz.

He told us "They are coming" For he knew our great suspense; But he had to tell the story So don't be hard on Stentz.

He said he's coming back next year, We hope he'll have the sense For we want to see the smiling face Of the man called J. Dale Stentz.

FOR FLETCHER'S

WILL BE A MOTION FAIR THIS YEAR

ELECTRIC POWER HAS BEEN SECURED FOR THE WEST MICHIGAN STATE FAIR.

ALL THE WHEELS WILL GO

Many Exhibits Will be Made That Formerly Have Been Missing Because of Lack of Power.

The West Michigan State Fair, the annual exposition of which will be held in Grand Rapids, Sept. 9-13; will this year and for the first time, be a fair of motion.

Up to this time the fair has been handicapped to some extent by lack of electric light and power, particularly the latter. This lack made it impossible to make the wheels go round as was desired. Just recently the township of Grand Rapids has granted to the Grand Rapids-Muskegon Power company a franchise to extend its wires from the Grand Rapids city limits through the township toward the fair grounds. At the boundary of the township, the wires have been strung along the right of way of the Grand Rapids Railway company and thus to the gates of the fair grounds. Once on the property of the West Michigan State Fair, these wires and the current they carry are to be used toward making the 1912 fair a real hummer.

The plan, as arranged, provides for wiring all the exhibition space both inside and outside the buildings. This means activity. All the power implements which annually are displayed at the Fair will this year be given the necessary electric power to make them go. Everything will be in motion—in active operation. The same is true of the exhibits within the big main hall. For years it has been the desire of certain industrial plants to exhibit at the Fair. Lack of power with which to operate machinery made that impossible because useless. This year with plenty of power on the grounds, they will all be there. Not only will they be there, but miniature plants will be set up and put into operation and the product of these factories turned out before the eyes of the thousands who will be there to see.

Among the most interesting exhibits to be shown will be one of the flour mills which has long desired to put in a most unique exhibit. This year it will be there. It will show all the different methods of making flour from the time when the wheat was cracked between two stones and by hand, down through the years when the water wheel turned the big mill stones and ground the wheat to flour, to the present time when an electrically operated mill with all the modern methods will be in operation on a small scale and the flour will be turned out on the fair grounds.

But more than this. Not only what you eat but what you wear will be manufactured there. For the women the manufacture of the corset will prove interesting and to everybody the knitting of a suit of underwear will prove attractive.

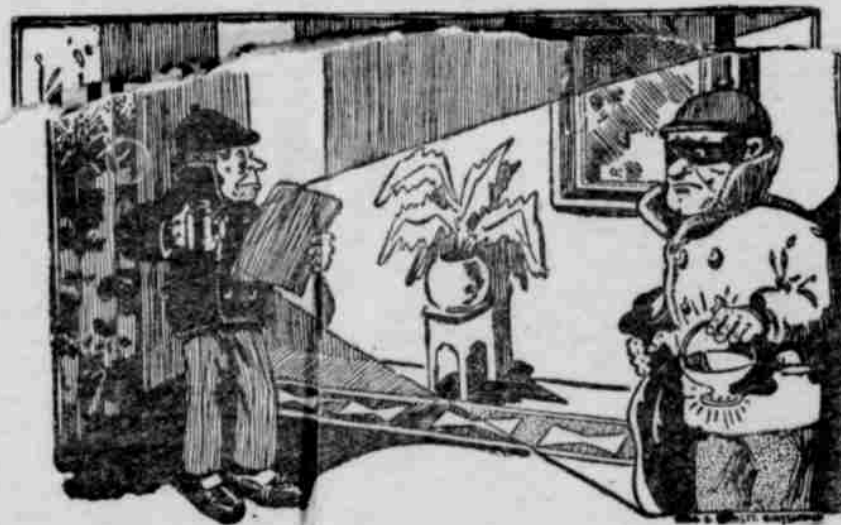

In the dairy department, the separators and the churns will all be running by electrical power. Everywhere everything that has a move in it, will be in motion. The Fair will be a Motion Fair. It will be a hummer.

Just a Little Conundrum

Why are these burglars like our lumber?
Because they always go into the best of homes.

Not only do we sell a majority of lumber for the best homes all around here, but we get most of the bills for barns, granaries and for all buildings where good, sound, dry material is required.

People have learned that there is a lot of difference in the quality of lumber, and as we make quality our "long suit" particular buyers take no chances, but buy what they need from us. Our stock is complete and our prices as low as you can get. Estimates cheerfully furnished.

WEST MICHIGAN STATE FAIR
HOPES TO ENTERTAIN ROOSEVELT

If Itinerary Will Permit, the Bull Moose Candidate for the Presidency Will Address Western Michigan Folks From the Grand Rapids Fair Grounds.

If things go as hoped and planned for, the West Michigan State Fair to be held in Grand Rapids Sept. 9 to 13 this year will offer to its guests the greatest attraction it has ever presented.

Now, the fair is making no rash promises. It is hoping to be able to give this big feature if plans mature.

Be it remembered that Theodore Roosevelt, the brilliant leader of progressivism in America and candidate for the presidency, is coming to Michigan. He has promised to be in this state several days and his itinerary is now being made up. The West Michigan State Fair has invited him to come to Grand Rapids during the week of Sept. 9 to 13 and to speak at the fair grounds when he will be able to meet, see and talk to more of the people of Western Michigan than he could possibly hope to reach in any other way.

It is for his personal interest to accept the invitation if his itinerary will permit. He realizes this but it is also a fact that the demands upon him just now are tremendous. From every section of the nation the invitations are pouring in upon him and of course he will not be able to accept all. But he has a particular fondness for Michigan. It was here that his party has been born and it is here that he finds some of his most ardent supporters.

The invitation of the West Michigan State Fair was among the first he received and he has made a promise that if possible to arrange it, he will surely be here to meet the thousands who will flock to Grand Rapids from all over this part of the state and to tell to them his views of progressivism. If he can make it, the West Michigan State Fair will surely be able to give to its guests the greatest feature it has ever offered and both Col. Roosevelt, the people of Michigan and the Fair will have reason to rejoice.
